Suggested study abroad programs for Science, Technology, Engineering Math and Health Science students led by VCU faculty.

Many other programs are open to STEM and Health Science students!
For a full list, visit: global.vcu.edu/programs

Scholarships and financial aid are available!

Spain: VCU VERDE: Science, Culture, Spanish Language and Service-Learning
INSC 201, SPAN 205, 305 or 322, WRLD 391 • $2,375 + airfare + tuition
Anita Nadal and Ulises Reveles
3-6 credits to study science, culture and Spanish language in Cordoba, Spain. Students participate in service projects, including environmental service projects, within Cordoba’s immigrant communities.

South Africa: Human Evolution and Legacy in Cape Town and Johannesburg
BIOL 391, ANTH 391 • $2,550 + airfare + tuition • Dr. Amy Rector Verrelli
6 credits in Biology and Anthropology to engage with South African natural and social history by focusing on aspects of the biological, archaeological and sociocultural anthropology of the country.

Ghana: Child Development and Disability Culture
OCCT 690 • $3,199 (includes airfare) + tuition • Dr. Stacey Reynolds
1-3 graduate credits in Occupational Therapy offers students the opportunity to explore Ghanaian culture and history in several different facilities in the Accra and Volta Regions

Spain: Nursing
NURS 491 • $1,000 + airfare + tuition • Allison Gregory
Students earn 1 credit in Nursing while studying the Spanish healthcare system and nursing education at the University of Cordoba in Andalucia.

Ready to go?
1. Review your options
2. Tell us where you want to study: go.vcu.edu/abroad
3. Apply to the program and for scholarship funding
Alternatives to Faculty-Led Programs:

Not interested in any of the VCU faculty-led programs? Here are some recommended alternatives!

Scholarships and financial aid are available! For more info: global.vcu.edu/programs

Northern Nature and Environment at University of Oulu, Finland (ISEP)
2 June-30 August; $5,500 (includes tuition, housing, and meals)
An introduction to the ecosystems of Finland and northern Scandinavia. Field courses include: Aquatic Animals, Ecological Botany, Terrestrial Animals, and a project course involving research on topics including: the adaptation of plant and animal species to the northern conditions; sub arctic plants in changing environment; soil as an ecosystem; seasonal adaptation; and life history strategies and population dynamics in norther populations of birds.

Business and Law in Biotechnology and German Language Study in Giessen, Germany (ISEP)
Mid-July-Mid-August; $3,600 (includes tuition, housing and some meals)
Topics in business, health, law, ethics and the natural sciences. All courses taught in English and students may also enroll in optional German language study at all levels. Study tours and internships at biotech companies and a 3-day study tour to various European Union institutions in Brussels, Belgium. 4.5 credits.

Green Adventure Program at Universidad Americana (UAM) in Managua, Nicaragua (ISEP)
Mid-June-Early August; $4,950 (includes tuition and homestay with meals)
Learn environmental similarities and differences between the US and Nicaragua, travel to incredible natural settings, and experience the vibrant realities of everyday life in biologically diverse Nicaragua. Students enroll in Environmental and Natural Resources and Ecology. No previous Spanish required.

Summer in Cyprus: Pre-Medicine (through Global Semesters)
29 May-4 July; $5,850 (includes tuition and housing)
This 7-credit program taught in English is for students interested in the medical profession. Through courses and labs, students become familiar with clinical settings while gaining substantial exposure and experience in the medical field. Program includes site visits to local public and private hospitals and clinics.

Yonsei International Summer School in Seoul, South Korea (ISEP)
Late June-Mid August; $5,500 (includes tuition, housing and meals)
Earn 6-9 credits, courses taught in English: General Chemistry, Physics, Engineering Economics, Environmental Toxicology, Biology, Microbiology, Genetics, Intro to Environmental Studies, Intro to Human Disease, and Organic Chemistry I.

Bogazici University Summer Term in Istanbul, Turkey
23 June-13 August; Approx. $1,500 (includes housing and 6 credits of tuition)

Ready to go?
1. Review your options
2. Tell us where you want to study: go.vcu.edu/abroad
3. Apply to the program and for scholarship funding