RSVP Now for NIJ’s Next Seminar in Research for the Real World Series: ATF’s NIBIN Program

Opening the Black Box of NIBIN

July 15, 2014
10:00–11:30 a.m.
Office of Justice Programs, 3rd Floor Ballroom
810 Seventh Street N.W.
Washington, DC 20531

NIJ’s next Research for the Real World seminar examines the operations of the Integrated Ballistic Information Network (NIBIN), a program with which firearms examiners are able to compare fired bullets or cartridges from a crime scene with digitized ballistic evidence in a nationwide database.

This seminar features research led by Dr. Bill King that examines the value of NIBIN database “hits” in solving crimes in which firearms are used. This seminar will discuss findings and recommendations for improving the tactical and strategic value of the program.

Joining Dr. King will be John Risenhoover, NIBIN’s national coordinator at the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives. Mr. Risenhoover will discuss how the research findings to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of NIBIN.

For more information or to RSVP, please contact Ted Robinson at Theodore.D.Robinson@ojp.usdoj.gov or 202-616-1739.

This seminar is free, but you must RSVP to gain access to the OJP building. Please allow 20 minutes to get through security.
