The Department of Biological Sciences at Fayetteville State University (FSU) invites applications for a Lecturer of Forensic Science starting Fall, 2015. A master’s degree in Forensic Science or a closely related natural science, and at least five years of practical forensic investigation and lab experience is required. The successful candidate is expected to teach courses in Forensics, develop new courses necessary for improving the curriculum, advise students in the Forensic Science Degree Program, engage in university and community service, and actively recruit students to the program. The Department of Biological Sciences is fully equipped with state-of-the-art equipment such as Thermocyclers, Real-Time PCR, 310 Genetic Analyzer, HPLC, GC, GC/MS, SEM, UV-Vis, and an electron microprobe. The Department is looking for a candidate who not only has the experience and expertise to teach forensics, but also has the energy and dynamic personality necessary to recruit and retain students in the program.

To apply, please complete an application and submit a cover letter and curriculum vitae through the FSU employment website at http://www.uncfsu.edu/hr/employment. In addition, please send all official undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three original recommendation letters from people familiar with their work to:

Khalid Lodhi, D.Sc.
Search Committee Chair
Department of Biological Sciences, STB 322
Fayetteville State University
1200 Murchison Road
Fayetteville, NC 28301

The search will begin immediately. To learn more about the position, feel free to contact the Search Committee Chair by telephone at (910) 672-1650 or e-mail at klodhi@uncfsu.edu. You can also visit http://www.uncfsu.edu to learn more about the FSU, a member of University of North Carolina (UNC) system located in Fayetteville, NC. Fayetteville is in the Sandhills region of North Carolina, and residents enjoy mild temperatures, four distinct seasons, a low cost of living, and easy access to beautiful Carolina beaches.

This position is subject to the successful completion of an employment background check. An employment background check includes a criminal background check, employment verification, reference checks, license verification (if applicable) and credit history check (if applicable).

Fayetteville State University is committed to equality of educational opportunity and does not discriminate against applicants, students, or employees based on race, religion, color, national origin, sex, age, disabling condition, political affiliation or sexual orientation. Moreover, Fayetteville State University values diversity and actively seeks to recruit talented students, faculty, and staff from diverse backgrounds.