If you’re a journalism or mass comm major, learn how to write about science. If you’re a science major, learn how to write like a journalist. We will publish your work in a journal hosted by VCU Libraries.

Details about the course

MASC 491-005: Science Journalism (CRN 34606) will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2 to 3:15 p.m. in Temple 2211. The course is a collaboration between the Robertson School of Media and Culture and VCU Libraries and is supported by a grant from VCU's Quest Innovation Fund. In the class, you'll learn how to write news stories about environmental issues, health and medicine, technology and other scientific topics. You will interview researchers at VCU and write (and shoot photos and videos) about their work. The stories you generate will be showcased in a magazine on the VCU Libraries website.

Interested?

Enroll by requesting an override at http://tinyurl.com/sci-j-override. If you have questions, contact Jeff South at jcsouth@vcu.edu or 804-827-0253.